

Cynthia Duodu

Trustee

Cynthia is a culture specialist with a passion for learning and development and brings a wealth of strategic and commercial experience gained within the private and public sectors. Throughout her career she has been instrumental in supporting organisations to improve its employee culture and engagement to achieve its strategic growth plans and potential. Having worked in the energy, health, impact investments and telecommunication sectors, she will bring insights from these fields as well as broad governance, risk management and financial management experience to the board. She is the Chief People Officer at Guy's and St Thomas' Foundation, where she is responsible for driving people strategy, establishing the organisation's vision, and leading all people operations, systems and programmes.